

A Family Affair

Do residents become part of our associates' family circles? Professionally speaking, they assuredly do. But oftentimes, the men and women they serve at work may also join their personal families' social gatherings.

Vicki Hartway, a staff member of Life Care Center of Collegedale, is a good example of this inclusion of love. "Vicki loves spending time with residents and chose to take a resident home with her to share Thanksgiving dinner with her and her family," said Carla Youngberg, executive director.

"The resident spent the night with Vicki in her home and shared a wonderful holiday with her. You can still hear the resident talking about her homelike holiday to associates and other residents in the facility, and how much she appreciates Vicki and her family for doing this for her."

Life Care is a family, and those who see it that way make an indelible impression on the hearts of those we serve.

--Beecher Hunter