

A Kiss and a Goal

One bitterly cold winter night, a young man plodded through knee-high snow to the home of the girl he had been dating regularly.

Tonight was the night. He asked her to marry him.

Being very practical, the young woman replied, "When you have several thousand dollars, I will seriously consider it."

Her suitor took that as a challenge.

Six months later, the two strolled hand in hand through a park along the river. It was a beautiful evening, with a golden moon lighting up the waterway. He stopped, took her in his arms and kissed her.

Then came his question: "When are we going to get married?"

"Well, you remember my condition," she said. "Just how much money have you saved?"

He replied, "Exactly $75."

She sighed and smiled, "Oh, well. I guess that's close enough!"

Sometimes, because of time and circumstances, our goals may have to be adjusted.

– Beecher Hunter