

A Wonder-Filled World

What a wonderful world we live in – a planet created by God.

I saw the sun rise this morning. It is God who reminds the sun to get up at its appointed time every day.

I saw a sparrow searching through the grass for food. It is God who feeds the sparrow.

I saw the reds and oranges in the blooms of flowers in the yard. It is God who dresses them in their splendor.

I saw – and heard – geese flying in formation, heading northward. It is God who guides these feathered flocks southward in the autumn and then brings them north again in the spring.

I saw the evidence of the night-and-day cycle of the earth, steadily rotating at tremendous speed. It is God who keeps it on track and on time.

I saw the innocence in the face of a newborn baby. It is God who does all things well.

You may contend that all of these wonders are merely the operation of the laws of nature. But natural law is God's wisdom as it works in keeping with His will.

As we behold the beauty and the function of creation all around us, let us worship the One who designed them.

The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament shows His handiwork (Psalm 19:1 NKJV).

– Beecher Hunter