

He Was Unique

In 1983, Harvard University accepted an extraordinary young man. Grant Colfax of Booneville, Calif., who had skipped school for the past 11 years and had spent his time raising goats and studying at home, was one of 2,200 men and women accepted out of 12,500 applicants for the freshman class at Harvard.

This unusual boy did not watch television. Why? Because there was no electricity in his home. His admissions test scores were in the top 5 percent.

Colfax is reported to have said, "They didn't take me because I may or may not be intelligent. They took me because I'm unique."

And so are you!

There is not another person in the world like you. You have your own physical characteristics, your own personality, a mind that functions in its own way; even your fingerprints are unlike any others in the world.

You're unique because God made you that way. And He has a purpose in mind for you. That's why you were born, and that's why you occupy space on this planet.

Part of the Lord's master plan is for us to serve others – each of them unique, too. In Life Care, Century Park and Life Care at Home, we get that opportunity every day, applying the particular skill sets with which He has endowed us.

Great personal satisfaction is our reward.
