

Making the Ship Go

A sea captain and his chief engineer were arguing over who was most important to the ship.

To prove their point to each other, they decided to swap places. The chief engineer ascended to the bridge, and the captain went to the engine room.

Several hours later, the captain suddenly appeared on deck covered with oil and dirt.

“Chief!” he yelled, waving aloft a money wrench.
“You have to get down there: I can’t make her go!”

“Of course, you can’t,” replied the chief engineer.
“She’s aground!”

On a team, we don’t attempt to outshine one another. We depend on each other.

Team is defined as a group of people linked in common purpose.

It’s true on a ship, and it is definitely true in the work of Life Care, Century Park and Life Care at Home.

– Beecher Hunter