

Pursued by a Truck

Several years ago, a newspaper reported this story:

One evening, a woman was driving home when she noticed a huge truck behind her that was running uncomfortably close. She stepped on the gas to gain some distance from the truck, but when she sped up, the truck did, too. The faster she drove, the faster the truck did.

Now scared, she exited the freeway. But the truck stayed with her. The woman then turned up a main street, hoping to lose her pursuer in traffic. But the truck ran a red light and continued the chase.

Reaching the point of panic, the woman whipped her car into a service station and bolted out of her automobile, screaming for help.

The truck driver sprang from his truck and ran toward her car. Yanking the back door open, the driver pulled out a man hidden in the back seat.

The woman was running from the wrong person. From his high vantage point, the truck driver had spotted a would-be rapist in the woman's car. The chase was not his effort to harm her but to save her, even at the cost of his own safety.

Likewise, many people run from God, fearing what He might do to them. But His plans are for good, not evil – to rescue us from hidden sins that endanger our lives.

He is a God who loves us, and willingly offered up the life of His Son in order to have eternal fellowship with us.
