

Sermons in a Nutshell

During this past holiday weekend, Kelley Falcon – vice president of Life Care’s HR Department – spotted this sign on a church marquee:

Don’t judge others just because they sin differently from you.

That, friends, will preach!

And it is a reminder that it is time for me to post some more such messages on church marquees, since we’ve not done it in a while. These are literally sermons in a nutshell. Most of them show a propensity to get to the heart of a matter in very few words (something that is not always true from the pulpit). And almost always, they strike us right between the eyes, no doubt as God and the church intended.

Here are some appearing on church marquees in various locations:

- The fact that there’s a highway to hell and only a stairway to heaven says a lot about anticipated traffic numbers.
- Jesus does not save halfway.
- Be kind whenever possible. A tip: It’s always possible.
- Do you spend your time with God’s book or Facebook?
- Tweet others as you want to be tweeted.
- Honk if you love Jesus; text while driving if you want to meet Him.
- Lord, help us to be the people our dogs think we are.
- When gratitude becomes your default setting, life changes.
- Adam and Eve: The first people to not read the apple’s terms and conditions.
- God loves you whether you like it or not.
- Prayer, the original wireless connection.
- Body piercing saved our souls.
- If your life stinks, we have a pew for you.
- Practice thanking God for more than elastic waistbands.
- Come early for a good seat in the back.

As you travel and notice church signs you particularly like, jot them down and send them to me. Wisdom, you see, can be expressed in a few words.
