

Trusting the Bubbles

A scuba diver once said that he had been in water so deep and dark that it was almost impossible to keep from becoming disoriented.

That must have been a terrifying feeling – being underwater, unable to see your hands in front of your face, not knowing which way is up, and panic engulfing you.

He was asked by a friend, "So what do you do?"

"Feel the bubbles," he said. "When it's pitch-black and you have no idea which way to go, you reach up with your hand and feel the bubbles. The bubbles always drift to the surface. When you can't trust your feelings or judgment, you can always trust the bubbles to get you back to the top."

Sometimes in life we may get disoriented and desperate. At other times, we find ourselves drifting aimlessly. God knew we would need advice and instructions about how to live.

In the 66 books of the Bible, we have a reality library – stories, letters, guidelines, and examples from God that tell us what is true and real.

We can trust the words we find there even more than bubbles in the sea.

– Beecher Hunter