Unquenchable Light

The 16th Century English bishop, Hugh Latimer, was one of the first preachers of social righteousness in the English-speaking world. He was imprisoned for his courage and enunciations.

While in the Tower of London, he wrote, "Pray for me, I say pray for me; at times, I am so afraid that I could creep into a mousehole."

This was the same Latimer who later walked bravely to the stake in Oxford, saying to his companion, Nicholas Ridley, as he went, "Play the man, Master Ridley; we shall this day light such a candle, by God's grace in England, as I trust shall never be put out."

In the centers of Life Care and Century Park and in the work of Life Care at Home, our associates are bringing light to residents who live in a dark and lonely world. Their contribution is without price.

--Beecher Hunter